

2018

Mélaïne Yameogo too wants to be a nurse. She is the youngest of three children of farmers. She rents a small house next to an aunt and other members of her extended family. There is no electricity, so she studies by a battery-powered lamp. She bicycles to nursing school, which is about four miles away.

Her well-organized little house.